THURSDAY, JULY 9, 1903.

The "enemy's country" has spread all the way from New York to Iowa. All Mr. Bryan has to do now is to cross his State line.

The Lehigh County Democrats have shuffled off the Crawford county system of making nominations and have returned to the national delegate plan.

Hon. John Barrett, who has just been appointed minister to Argentina, has traveled 45,000 miles in his trip around the world in the past year and has interviewed fifteen kings and emperors, largely in the interest of the St. Louis exposition.

There are always a good many men, who, knowing well that they could not under any circumstances get the nomination, loudly proclaim that they could not possibly afford to accept such an office as the vice-presidency of the United States.

A New York burglar received a sentence of four years. Upon dismissing the Judge, therefore, he received two additional years. For further cursing this style of justice and assaulting a by-stander he received three years more from the Judge. He may now conclude to be good.

The Louisville Courier Journal can be counted upon to shortly deliver another scathing broadside against Mr. Cleveland, Mr. Bryan and the New York four-hundred; a Kentucky warehouse fire destroyed a million gallons of fine whiskey and the smoke and heat has damaged some of the best mint beds in the State.

The American squadron, so right royally entertained at Kiel, Germany, is next the honored guest of King Edward in English waters. Courtesy or hospitality given or received, do not lessen an individual's ability to care for or defend his own; on the contrary an interchange of courtesies frequently prevents the necessity of such defense.

The Iowa State convention, without appearing to regard the numerous tea-pot tempests outside of the State cathedral, endorsed Governor Cummins for re-election and adopted a platform on which any man who believes in protection can consistently stand, put or otherwise. Of course this is a serious disappointment to the Democratic hopeful.

The laying of the American cable across the Pacific ocean has been completed, the work occupying seven months, and attracted but slight attention. When Cyrus Field, with the aid of the Great Eastern, finished the great task of laying the much shorter Atlantic Cable the fact was celebrated in song and story. How great has been the strides of progress!

It has been a long time in coming, but we have it at last. Ex-Governor Pattison of Pennsylvania brings forward the slogan for the next national campaign, "Turn the Rascals out." Inasmuch as the rascals will not only be turned out but most of them turned in jail before even a meeting of Congress, at the hands of the Republican administration and investigation, it is a little difficult to see what the Democrats could gain by their shouting.

The report of the Inter-State Commission shows a net increase in railroad earnings for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1902 of $52,000,000 over that of the preceding year and estimates are made of a further increase of $10,000,000 for the year of 1903. This tremendous increase in railroad business, indicating of course highly prosperous conditions of trade, comes in spite of the fact that most of the railroads have been spending enormous sums of money in permanent improvements.

Chemist Wiley of the Department of Agriculture has closed his borax boarding house until next October. And still Doctor maintains silence regarding the gastronomic efforts of this wholesome mineral. Borax has long been known as a substance with which the housewife could drive away ants from the cupboard. If it can be shown that handling it really has the effect upon ants and mother-in-law which it has had upon Doctor Wiley—that of a discreet silence—a great discovery will have been made by the American government.

The San Francisco "Wasp" which stands at the gateway of the Orient and looks across the country at the heart string of saffron colored journals, the San Francisco Examiner, the Chicago American, the New York Journal and associates, in speaking of Mr. Hearst's recent marriage and his social and Presidential aspirations, remarks that "You cannot be a successful newspaper publisher, a successful candidate for office, a member of the social smart set, and an ally of all the anarchists, socialists, demagogues and agitators in the country at one and the same time."

The annual immigration into the United States is getting up very close to a million persons. Commissioner Sargent of the Immigration Bureau has made the following ominous statement which carries its own lesson:

"The great bulk of immigration in 1888 was composed as it had been since the foundation of our country, of the Teutonic and Celtic races of Western Europe, while the people who are now seeking our shores are mostly of the Slavonic races of Eastern Europe and Italians. This change in the character of our immigration has increased the illiteracy rate from about 7 per cent to 25 per cent."

Bordentown is having an experience that Bristol had with a smallpox epidemic. For over a year we battled with the plague, and about the time when it appeared that the disease had been stamped out there would be a fresh outbreak. Quarantine regulations were maintained but there was no check to the epidemic until the Board of Health appointed a corps of seven physicians who took charge of districts and visited every house in the borough and offered free vaccination. That was six months ago and there has not been a case of smallpox in the borough since. If towns would adopt the free vaccination plan upon the start, lives and money would both be saved.

THE GOVERNOR'S SECRETARY.

"On Saturday our town was visited by certain parties from East Bristol township in the interest of Fred Stuckert. He has met with great success in this county and no doubt with the help of Walter F. Leedom, Hiram Whitson and Captain Ed. Wanda he will make Joe Shelly go home."

The above paragraph which appeared in the Newportville notes in the Gazette last week caused something of a commotion in West Bristol township, and for a while we rested under the most pleasant apprehension that the new press "muzzler" was to be "tried on the dog." In other words, His Excellency, the Governor, having failed to apply a test of the new libel law in connection with the notorious violations of the statute by the big Philadelphia dailies, the Gazette was to be used by Mr. Penzance's private Secretary, Bromley Whitson, for the publication of the above item. Word was received at this office on Saturday that Mr. Whitson intended to bring legal action against this paper.

The Secretary's estimate wife called at the Gazette office on Monday, and after renewing her subscription, declared Mr. Whitson was greatly incensed at the publication of the article because they were both personal friends of Mr. Shelly and were heartily in accord with the latter's campaign for the nomination of District Attorney, and felt grieved that the information should go abroad that Mr. Whitson was allied in any manner with the candidacy of Mr. Stuckert. Mrs. Whitson requested as a favor that we make this announcement. She stated that Mr. Whitson has always been a strict party man and has never been in sympathy with persons who have sought to accomplish the defeat of the ticket, and has always devoted his energies to aid in the triumph of the Republican organization.

The President's strenuousness is a cause for a continued complaint among the chronic pessimists.

THE YERKES CAMPAIGN.

When it becomes necessary to garble, distort and even falsify in an alleged non-partisan judicial campaign the general public will believe that the side having recourse to such methods are endeavoring to bolster a tattering campaign. The Yerkes campaign is being conducted in a manner that cannot help but bring the nominee into disrepute for the reason that it is well known that he could if necessary turn the crank of the Democratic organ and change the tune. Concerning this method of campaign the Doylestown Republican says:

The hundreds of Republicans who assembled at the county seat a month ago and nominated Henry Lear for Judge know in what spirit they came here and now the proceedings of the convention are being maligned and misrepresented by the publication of falsehoods deliberately contrived to deceive citizens who did not attend the convention. All these malicious statements impelled by disappointment and ambition are an advantage to the Republican candidate. While not worth the loss of one's temper they are of a character calculated to make every Republican who participated in the convention resent them by increasing his efforts to establish in the county a truly non-partisan and non-political judiciary by the election of Mr. Lear. For this reason the Republican gladly publishes the following article from an article that has appeared in two Democratic papers. Concerning the Republican convention the article says:

"Many who went to Doylestown to help elect the crowd had no thought of what was going on. Some attended with the expectation of free dinners, and others, who had been invited to a convention, did not participate when they learned it was a judicial convention. It is admitted that some of the officers of the convention had declared their purpose to support Judge Yerkes and have since deprecated the holding of the convention as a mistake."

THE UTILITY OF REFINEMENT.

This story is told of a certain king, that he had a temple to be built to the accompaniment of music. From the laying of the corner stone until the last tower was finished, the women performed their tasks under the influence of the sweetest, most melodious and most beautiful music ever finished. It was found that work had been done not only more expeditiously, but more soundly and beautifully, than any of the kind in the kingdom. Much the same result seems to be accomplished by the influence of refinement and work by the refinements of life. No one's building can be of so practical or prosaic a sort that it will not be better and more easily done under the influence of those things that ennoble the soul, purify the heart, and cheer the soul. Books, art, ennobling companionships, pure and wholesome pleasures, conversation upon edifying subjects, even the amusements and manifold delights of life, all these things tend to facilitate and improve work. Assuredly, there never was a time when, averaging all kinds and conditions of labor, so much good work was being done in the world as now. And the secret seems to be largely in the fact that an atmosphere of refinement is round about the modern worker, permeating all achievement with that fine quality which Matthew Arnold has so aptly termed "sweetness and light."

A CHOICE EPIGRAPH.

(One hour of many strange and queer epigrams appearing on tombstones, but the following which has recently been discovered on a stone in the cemetery of a remote country village in Germany, ought to bear off the palm: "Here lies the body of Joseph Moritz, senior, who was murdered by his daughter in his sixty-second year. Here lies the body of Elisabeth Moritz, wife of Joseph Moritz, who was murdered by her son. Here lies the body of Marie Moritz, who committed suicide after shooting her father. Here lies the body of Joseph Moritz, junior, who was hanged for murdering his own mother.")

CHOLERA INFANTUM.

This has long been regarded as one of the most dangerous and fatal diseases to which infants are subject. It can be cured however, when properly treated. All that is necessary is to give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and oiled oil as directed with each bottle, and a cure is certain. For sale by E. M. # WAS CRAZED FROM INTERPRETATION.

DAHLEM MURDERED HIS WIFE AND THEN KILLED HIMSELF.

Byberry, July 6th.—The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Dahlem were yesterday taken charge of by relatives, making the latest chapter of a tragic affair which ended in murder and suicide that occurred Saturday at the Muller homestead on Gravel Pike, Byberry.

His mind unbalanced by drink, Dahlem prevailed upon his wife to go with him to the country place on Saturday, and after killing her turned the revolver on himself. There has been some mystery concerning the motive for such a crime until President G. A. Muller, of the Berger & Engel Brewing Co., a brother of the dead woman, explained that Dahlem had become crazed through alcoholic excesses and that it had been feared by the family that he would do some desperate act.

Mr. Muller and other members of the family had tried to persuade Mrs. Dahlem to leave her husband, as his conduct did not improve. Mrs. Dahlem would not listen to these entreaties, and her loyalty cost her life. No one witnessed the double tragedy, and the police worked in the dark until Mr. Muller came up from Atlantic City last night and gave an insight into the mental makings of the murderer and suicide.

DROVE OUT SATURDAY MORNING.

It was learned that Dahlem and his wife visited the homestead on Friday night, but returned to the city. The keys of the house on the place are kept by Paul Hanley, and when the Dahlems called for the keys on Friday at his house on Gravel Pike he noticed that man and wife were seemingly not on good terms. Hanley was told that the pair had been quarreling. A return visit was made on Saturday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Dahlem being driven to the homestead by Samuel Rankin, who lives near the Red Lion Hotel at Torrens. Rankin is supposed to have been the last person to see them alive.

TRIED TO REFORM HER HUSBAND.

According to Rankin, Dahlem was sober and seemed to be in high spirits. Dahlem had purchased a half pint of whiskey at the hotel, but did not drink any during the ride. Mrs. Dahlem did not use alcohol in any form, and had done her best, although unsuccessful, to correct her husband's habits. The two brought five pieces of luggage with them, and the told Rankin they intended to stay a month.

FOUND DEAD BY VISITORS.

Reaching the farm, Mr. and Mrs. Dahlem, with the assistance of Hanley, opened the cottage in which they had been in the habit of staying. This is the four-roomed building, which was used at one time as a pump-house, and adjoins the quaint old farm house. Then it must have been that Dahlem shot his wife and killed himself. The cottage is far back from the roadway, and it is easy to understand why the shrieks of the woman or the pistol shots were not heard. It was not until the visit of A. L. Keegan, a medical student, living at No. 3383 Walnut street, and Miss Annie Walters, of No. 2017 North Third street, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, that the tragedy became known. The bodies were found lying in the hallway of the little house. Both were fully dressed and it was evident that Mrs. Dahlem had endeavored to run past her husband and reach the yard. Both Keegan and Miss Walters kept in seclusion yesterday, and had evidently been instructed by the police to do little talking about the case.

WAS AN ALCOHOLIC DEGENERATE.

Dahlem was an architect by profession," said Mr. Muller last night, "and was a young man of ability and promise. He was 32 years old and was for a time in the Berger & Engel Brewing Co. In this way he got into the saloon business temporarily. Eighth and Sansom streets. About eight years ago he married my sister Sophia against the wishes of her family. She had a comfortable income, and this proved his ruin. He would do no work, began to drink to excess and became what might be called an alcoholic degenerate. He has been under treatment a number of times, but has never been cured. While under the influence of drink he would imagine all sorts of things about his wife, and did not hesitate to talk about them. Those who knew my sister knew her to be a devoted, refined woman, whose chief fault was her loyalty to her husband. She did everything in her power, as did all the members of the family, to reform him and keep him straight. He tried in every way to get him into legitimate business and frequently offered to assist him in becoming a useful citizen. All these efforts were wasted. He did not want to live a decent life."

REFUSED TO GET A DIVORCE.

"Recently they had been living at our old family place, at Byberry, but Mrs. Dahlem had led a miserable life with him. Many times she has walked all the way to Torrens, more than two miles, to get a trolley car on which to ride into the city to seek shelter and protection for her relatives. I begged her to go to a hotel in Europe to give me a chance to fix up the matter for her. Despite her suffering, she remained loyal to her husband and up to the last hoped he would mend his ways."

Very Remarkable Case of Dis rheum.

"About six years ago for the first time in my life I had a sudden and severe attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs. Alice Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more miseries than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved to Bogues county, our property being sold. While here we happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful. I could hardly realize that I was well again, or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine costing but a few cents, cured me." For sale by E. M. Martin, Bristol, wholesale agent for Bucks county.

Slight injuries often disable a man and cause several days' loss of time and when blood poisoning develops, sometimes result in the loss of a hand or limb. Chamberlain's Pain Expeller, New York City, is a sure remedy applied to cuts, bruises and burns it causes them to heal quickly and without maturation, and prevents any danger of blood poisoning. ## Poverty.

The people call him rich, his lands stretch very far and very wide,
They call him rich, but there he stands
Ill clad and bent and hollow eyed.

The people call him rich, his gold is piled in many a yellow heap,
But he is all alone and old,
And when he dies no one will weep.

They call him rich, but where he dwells
The floors are bare the walls are blank;
They call him rich, he buys and sells,
But no fond fingers stroke his cheek.

They call him rich, he does not know
The happiness of standing where
Sweet winds across the meadows blow
And toss the verdant billows there.

Woman's Sigh For a Pocket.

How dear to this heart are the old-fashioned dresses
When fond recollection presents them to view!

In fancy I see the old wardrobe and presses
Which held the loved gowns that in girlhood I knew.

The wide crumpled mohair, the silk that hung by it,
The ruffled foulard, the pink organdie high

But, oh, for the pocket that hung in each gown,
The old-fashioned pocket, the obsolete pocket.

The praiseworthy pocket that hung in each gown.

The dear, roomy pocket I'd hail as a treasure
Could it but behold it in gowns of today;

I'd find it the source of an exquisite pleasure,
But all my modistes sternly answer me

"Nay!" "Would be so convenient when going out shopping,
"Twould be my small purchases coming from town,
And always my purse or my kerchief I'm dropping."

Oh, no, for the pocket that hung in my gown!

The old-fashioned pocket, the obsolete pocket.

The praiseworthy pocket that hung in my gown.

A gown with a pocket, how fondly I'd guard it!
Each day ere I'd don it I'd brush it with care.

Not a full Paris costume could make me discard it,
Though tried with the laces an empress might wear.

But I have no hope, for the fashion is banished,
The tear of regret will my fond visions drown!

As fancy reverts to the days that have vanished
I sigh for the pocket that hung in my gown.

The old-fashioned pocket, the obsolete pocket.

The praiseworthy pocket that hung in my gown.

—Carolyn Wells in Christian Endeavor World.

Climbing Up the Hill.

Happy Go Lucky and Placid of Heart
Set off on a journey with Only Try,
And each was ready to do his part
In the halcyon days of the little home.

But when the shadows were growing long
And the crickets chirping their evening song
Up rose like a barrier mighty strong
A rocky hillside high.

Said Happy Go Lucky, "Suppose we wait,
And somebody passing may give us a ride."

"We shall break our necks if we climb so late!"

Poor Placid of Heart, in a panic, cried,
But Only Try, with a resolute eye,
Looked up at the hill and the sunset sky.
"There's plenty of time," said Only Try,
"And the moon is full besides."

So Only Try, without stay or stop,
Went clambering up over rock and root
Till he stood at last on the hill's green top.

In a beautiful clearing, with flowers and fruit,
But the other two were waiting still,
For nobody lives or ever will,
That can reach the top of the smallest hill
By sitting down at the foot!

—New York News.

Folded Arms.

"Tis not the man with match and light
Behind the barricade
Nor he who wields the dynamite
That makes us feel afraid.
For halter and prison cell
Soon conquer these brief armies,
But where are they the minute to quell
The man with folded arms?"

We dread the man who folds his arms
And tells the simple truth,
Whose strong, impetuous protest charms
The virgin life of youth,
And smites to meet his doom,
Who on the scaffold still can speak
And preaches from the tomb.

We kill the man with dagger drawn,
The man with loaded rifle,
They never see the morning dawn
Nor halt the rising sun,
But when they lay the immortal man
Whom nothing mortal harms,
Whom never fought and never ran,
The man with folded arms?

—Ernest Crosby.

Half Done.

There's a plant completed under the sun;
A wall that's hushed with a mother's kiss
A lullaby and a mother's bliss,
And the babe's youth ere the song's half sung.

There's nothing finished since life began;
A thirst for knowledge; but, alas, too late,
For the boy's a man and the task not done.

And the days pass over by one.
A bit of fame and a dream that flies,
A hand outreached for a shadowy prize,
And the runner's dead, though the race half run.

—Augusta Kortrecht in New York Press.

Right Shall Prevail.

The way of the transgressor is too hard
To tempt sans spirits, even were the grain.

The one desideratum which his eyes Bought in the devout struggle. He is battered.

By the respect of all his fellows, scared
By sacred sin and branded by the lies
Which his soul is burdened. Would He felt he were pierced by ragged stone and shard.

Though wrong a while triumphant may appear.

Though Hamlet smooth the way that evil trends,
Though right be ravished and the righteous fear

And honor for a time seem torn to shreds, Truth yet shall triumph, though the wicked sneer

And all their sins recoil upon their heads
—W. L. Clanchan in St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
